

Labour History Review Index

1990-1999

Dr Mike Mecham

St Mary's University, London

Introduction

This final instalment of the indexing project covering sixty years of the Society for the Study of Labour History Bulletin and Labour History Review (LHR) covers the first decade of the latter as it transformed from the Bulletin which had so well served the labour history community for thirty years. It remained ambitious, retaining three issues each year, attracting leading figures in the field as well as showcasing the next generation. The Society was fortunate in having been supported over of those years by key scholars in the field, including John L. Halstead, who was not only a former editor of both journals but has supported this indexing project from the start.

Another constant presence from 1985, with his first book review, until 2018, with an article on the Christian Socialist, Charles Stubbs (83:1, pages 1-28), was the late Professor Malcolm Chase (1957-2020). Appreciations of his life and work can be found in LHR 85:3 (December 2020), pages 219-232. A teacher, author and renowned authority on the Chartists, Malcolm Chase still found time in the Society's journals to regularly review books and write articles, to edit the Review and act as a vice-president of the Society. This completed indexing project is therefore dedicated to his memory and the immense contribution he made to the development of British labour history. It is also fitting, therefore, that this final part of the index has drawn on his earlier work covering volumes 61 to 65 (1996-2000) and published in LHR 65:3 (1995), pages 405-442. In addition, the extensive reviews in volumes 55 to 60 (1990-1995) have been transcribed from Victor F. Gilbert, Cumulative Index to the Bulletin of the Society for the Study of Labour History (1986-1989) and the Labour History Review (1990-1995), published as a booklet in 1998 by the Society. Now out of print, a copy was generously provided by John L. Halstead.

The most recent history of the Society covering the years 1956-1985 can be found in John McIlroy, 'The Society for the Study of Labour History, 1956-1985: Its Origins and Its Heyday', LHR 2010 Supplement 1, pages 19-112.
